came very near throwing himself from the Oakland boat. This was in the first week. His depression and despuir were so great that when his two weeks vacation was over ne could not do anything. By my wishes he returned to the bank. I thought ardent work might do him good. I called to see him there, but despair was on him, and I feared the result. On Friday, the 9th of July, I went to the bank and sought the manager and one of the principal assistants. I told them of my knowledge of Edward's condition of mind. They were very polite, and not only consented to, but urged his taking a trip. That evening I took him to the Ban Rafael boat. I asked him if he would like to go. He said: 'I will go anywhere with you.' We went to San Rafael, took dinner, and engaged horses and drove to the Novato ranch that night. Edward hardly uttered a word. His depression excited the family, and in the morning the host asked what was the matter with my friend.'

Mr. Montgomery objected to the extension of this hearsay syidence. Objection overruled.

with my friend."
Mr. Montgomery objected to the extension of this hearsay evidence. Objection overruled. Dr. Stabbins continued: I applosized for his silence, pleading that he was not accustomed to society. After breakfast we went out walking, but he expressed no interest in anything he saw. In the afternoon we drove to Petaluma. I made him drive, to give him occupation. We he saw. In the afternoon we drove to Petaluma. I made him drive, to give him occupation. We drove eight miles. I could get no response from him. When within four miles of Petaluma he burst out in frenzy: Let me go! Why should I go with you? I have nothing to go to—nothing to go to. He hauled up, as if to stop and leap from the wagon. I put my arm around him, gently restrained him, and kissed him. [Here the Doctor broke down utterly, I go him along to Petaluma, and he seemed more quiet. We got rooms which opened into each other, and wheeled around the beds so that at any hour of night I could watch him by the light of the gas. I saw he was not sleeping. I heard him groan. Presently he arose. I called him. He said he was going out. I dissuaded him. He went back and stayed in bed, sleepless, and morning.

him. He said he was going out. I disauded him. He wont back and stayed in bed, sleepless, till morning.

On Sunday we arcse and walked about the village. He seemed to take some interest in the advantages of banking in Petaluma. Immediately afterward he broke out: What am I bere for? Why should I go with you; why should I go anywhere? In oassing the churches we made some inquiries as to the church hours. When the hour arrived we went to the Methodist Church. Edward saw a citizen coming in with his wife and children. He was overwhelmed with grief at the sight, and burst out with a cry of 'Oh!' Oh his return to the hots! he groaned repeatedly. In the afternoon we went out to Santa Rosa, he driving. He said nothing but 'Yes' or 'No.' We got out a couple of miles, and the harness needing repair he got a man to help us out of the man and said he supposed the man had a happy home. We drove to Santa Rosa and passed a similar experience during the nightage we had the night before account that he was needed to the taken and passed a similar experience during the nightage.

open and affectionate hospitality. His whole bearing was changed and his whole nature eclipsed. Mrs. Schroederconfeased that Lefevre had been there three or four times."

Cross-examined—I have known Mr. Schroeder nino years. He was married to my daughter in June of 1871 or 1872. I had known him six or eight months.

By Mr. Monigomery—Did he marry your daughter with your consent?

Objected to and abandoned after a long argument.
